Call for a Worldwide Resistance to Global Fascism: Stop the Central Bank Takeover

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—The following call by Helga Zepp-LaRouche was issued as a resolution by the Schiller Institute, on November 19:

Seventy-five years after the end of World War II, the world is threatened with a new fascist dictatorship. It comes, this time, in the form of the attempt by the leading central banks, the City of London and Wall Street to consolidate total control over all financial investments for the benefit of the super-rich, at the expense of the middle-classes and the poor worldwide. The “ecological transition” they peddle signifies a destructive financial takeover of economies, with the “green” color being but the banner of their purpose to loot.

They call it the “Great Reset.” Under the pretext of rebuilding the world economy after the COVID-19 pandemic, the top private bankers and billionaires intend to implement a “regime change,” whereby monetary and fiscal policy is no longer to be decided by elected governments, but by the private central banks and leading financial players directly. In this final phase of the decades-long neo-Malthusian policy in favor of speculators, they would have ultimate control over all investments and channel them entirely into “green technologies,” thus cutting off all investment in the productive sectors of high-tech energy, industry, agriculture and infrastructure.

If this scheme, promoted by the World Economic Forum with a series of “Great Reset” conferences, goes through, it will mean the end of the industrialized nations of the so-called advanced sector, and the death of literally millions, and then billions, of people in the developing countries, because there is a direct correlation between the productivity of an economy and the energy flux density used in the productive process and the number of human beings who can be sustained. If the entire world economy is “decarbonized,” in what Hans Joachim Schellnhuber and his associates already years ago called the “Great Transformation of the World Economy,” including the exit from nuclear energy and research, then the number of people who can be sustained will scarcely be more than 1 billion. What about the other 7 billion? This approach, if not reversed, can only lead to chaos and a new world war.

An integral part of the “Great Reset” is the plan to introduce cryptocurrencies and the digitalization of currencies. This would allow the total surveillance of all personal data in any field of economic activity, completing what is already ongoing with the physical surveillance by the NSA and the GCHQ. If the directionality of society remains for the benefit of a privileged financial elite, this will be used to devalue the accumulated unpayable debt through write-downs and inflation, such as happened in Germany in 1923, and both the people and the productive economy will be looted. The digitalization of currencies can only find useful applications if society is oriented toward the benefit of the common good.

The present effort to establish total control over monetary and fiscal policy, by giving control to the central banks in the framework of the “Great Reset,” and imposing a Green New Deal, is based on the same fascist principles as the policy of Hitler’s President of the Reichsbank Hjalmar Schacht, and must be absolutely rejected.

We demand:

- A global Glass-Steagall banking separation, the end of all support for the speculative, investment bank sector and the shutting down of the shadow economy;
- The re-establishment of sovereignty over the national currencies;
- The creation of a national bank in every country, and the return of credit creation to sovereign governments;
- The creation of a new credit system in the tradition of the original intention of Franklin Delano Roosevelt’s Bretton Woods system and of the Non-Aligned Movement countries in the 1976 Colombo Conference. The primary aim is to increase the living standards of every human being on the planet as the precondition for peace, and to overcome all current challenges, such as the pandemic, world famine and poverty.
- A massive increase in productivity by moving to new economic platforms based on the commercial use of thermonuclear fusion power and international cooperation in space research and travel.

The fundamental opposition determining our future and that of the generations to come is between a mass surveillance society under the rule of green fascist finance, and a world of détente, entente and cooperation among all peoples and nations, in the way all humanists have posed and pose the challenge. We are committed to fighting for it.

This text is being circulated internationally, and people are called upon to sign it. In 1945, all those who had just lived through fascism and world war said clearly: “Never again!” We are now at the hour of decision: Have we learned anything from history, or are we more immoral than our forefathers?

COVID-19 AND FAMINE

Pfizer/BioNTech Completes Phase 3 of Vaccine Trial, Showing Safety and Efficacy

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—Pfizer/BioNTech announced today that they have completed Phase 3 testing of their Covid-19 vaccine, and will be submitting a request for FDA approval within days. This is the first Covid-19 vaccine to have completed Phase 3 testing. There were over 43,000 participants in the trial, half getting the vaccine and half getting a placebo (a fake shot), with a double-blind format so that the participants and researchers did not know which participants got the vaccine until the trial was over. During the trial period there were a total of 170 cases of Covid-19, including 162 cases in the non-vaccinated group, and 8 cases in the vaccinated group, indicating an efficacy rate of over 95%. For participants over age 65, the efficacy rate was 94%. There were no serious side effects. The worst adverse effects in the vaccinated participants were fatigue in 3.8%, and headache in 2%.

If approved, Pfizer plans to produce 50 million doses globally in 2020, and up to 1.3 billion doses by the end of 2021. The high efficacy rate among participants over 65 is crucial, because the elderly have had a significantly higher death rate from Covid-19 since the epidemic began. It is anticipated that if the vaccine is approved, the first segments of the population to get the vaccine will be the elderly, people with chronic debilitating disease, and front-line health care workers.

The vaccine is based on an advanced technology using messenger RNA produced in a lab, which codes for the Covid-19 spike protein. There is no virus in the vaccine. Pfizer is headquartered in New York, BioNTech in Mainz, Germany.

UNITED STATES POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC

Trump's Legal Team's Press Conference Shows 'a Path to Victory'

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—The President's legal team battling to overturn the theft of the election, headed by Rudy Giuliani, held a press conference today at the Republican National Committee (RNC) and showed they have a path to victory—a narrow one, but paved with solid evidence. They are, as Trump campaign attorney Jenna Ellis said, only at the opening arguments in their case, proffering the plentiful evidence they have. Giuliani stated it this way: “The American people elected Donald Trump. They didn't elect Joe Biden. Give us a chance to prove it in court, and we will.”

Giuliani's part of the battle presentation—and he waged aggressive battle with the journalists present throughout—was a complete discrediting of mass mail-in voting, which bipartisan leaders since President Jimmy Carter and Justice David Souter have warned against for decades as conducive to fraudulent elections, local, state and national. It should never be used in this way again, Giuliani said—he and attorney Sidney Powell stressed that they were fighting to take back the constitutionality of American elections, for the future as well as for Donald Trump.

The evidence Giuliani presented seemed to dent and/or infuriate even the hardened fabricators assembled at RNC headquarters as press; some asked questions about specific evidence, as he had dared them to do. “You can say these affidavits could be false, Joe Biden's lawyers can cross-examine them—but you can't keep saying, as you all do say, that we have no evidence; you're lying to the public,” he had said.

Start with a total of more than 1,000 affidavits across five hotly contested states, and others. Some 220 sworn affidavits in the Michigan case alone, attesting to orders to back-date ballots, have cart-loads of ballots brought in at 4:00 a.m. Nov. 4 marked only with Joe Biden votes, no down-ballot votes, etc. Jesse Jacob, a long-time election worker in Detroit, swore to receiving instructions to commit just about every facilitation of mail-ballot fraud imaginable. Affidavits attested to 150% to 350% over-votes (more ballots than voters) in Wayne County precincts—the reason the Wayne County Election Board has not certified its election.

In Wisconsin, they have found 60,000 more mail-in ballots than applications having been made for them, an open-and-shut violation of Wisconsin election law.

In the case of Philadelphia, 60 sworn affidavits of poll inspectors who could not inspect the opening of mail ballots from “pens” 60 feet away—including a few Democratic inspectors who observed this. This is the main basis for the charge of 680,000 illegal votes cast in the state as a whole. In the case of Pittsburgh, 15,000 provisional ballots at polling places cast by people who had already voted by mail according to election board records. Hundreds of sworn witnesses in Pennsylvania as a whole; also for the case of unequal treatment under law, since some in “Trump” areas of the state were denied the right to “cure” their deficient mail-in ballots while all those in the two big cities were invited in to do so.

In the case of Georgia, a lawsuit to be filed Friday, Nov. 20, with numerous affidavits on observing “double and triple voters,” out-of-state voters, and other frauds.

And more, equally substantive evidence. Giuliani summed up: “In five states, we have [proof of fraud in] more than double the number of votes necessary to overturn the election.” And he said, “This was a common scheme that came direct from the DNC, and from the candidate.”

STRATEGIC WAR DANGER

Ritter Describes How U.S. Successful Intercept of ICBM Brings World Closer to Nuclear War

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—Former UN weapons inspector Scott Ritter, in an op-ed posted in RT on Nov. 17, warned that the successful test of an SM-3 Block IIA missile interceptor against an ICBM target from an Aegis-equipped destroyer on Nov. 16 has proven that Russian concerns that the NATO BMD installations in Poland and Romania threaten their nuclear deterrent potential, are correct. “Russia has long held that the deployment of anti-ballistic missile systems in Europe represented a major alteration of the strategic balance of power, insofar as it empowered a potential U.S./NATO nuclear first strike scenario, in which U.S. nuclear-armed missiles would be launched against Russian strategic nuclear forces in an effort to pre-emptively destroy them,” he wrote. “Europe would then avoid the certainty of mutually assured destruction by hiding behind the U.S. missile defense shield, which in theory would be capable of shooting down the handful of Russian missiles that might survive such an attack.”

Ritter called the SM-3 Block IIA interceptor “a great threat to Russia,” and declares that “Russia has long linked further progress in arms control to the need for the U.S. to agree to limitations on its ballistic missile defense capabilities to prevent the very situation that is unfolding today. By putting the SM-3 Block IIA interceptor to the test as an anti-ICBM weapon, the U.S. has made the New START treaty irrelevant overnight, testing the willingness of Russia to agree to an extension,” Ritter continued. “Even if Russia does allow the New START treaty to be extended, there is little doubt that it will insist on meaningful and verifiable limits to U.S. ballistic missile defense capabilities, including the SM-3 Block IIA interceptor, before Russia could sign on to a new follow-on strategic arms reduction treaty.”

He concluded: “The combination of low-yield nuclear weapons on board U.S. submarines lurking off Russia’s coast, with U.S. destroyers equipped to shoot down Russian ICBMs, is the stuff of any Russian nuclear planner’s worst nightmare. Russia will most likely be compelled to reexamine its alert posture to account for the increased possibility that the U.S. may seek to launch a pre-emptive decapitation attack using low-yield nuclear weapons. This means that Russia will be compelled to react quickly to any detection event suggestive of such a strike, reducing the time for leaders to consider the possibility of error before giving the order to launch. In short, while the U.S. may claim that the SM-3 Block IIA is a defensive weapon that creates stability in regional and global security, the exact opposite is the case—the SM-3 Block IIA increases the chance for inadvertent nuclear war between the U.S. and Russia. This is never a good outcome.”

Russia’s FSB Chief Says NATO Is Undermining the Nagorno-Karabakh Agreement

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—Russian Foreign Intelligence Service Director Sergei Naryshkin issued a statement accusing NATO countries of attempting to undermine the Nagorno-Karabakh ceasefire agreement between Armenia and Azerbaijan. “According to the information we have, some Western countries are inciting Armenian and Azerbaijani nationalists to discredit and disrupt the ceasefire agreements. They are trying to convince Armenians that the peace in Nagorno-Karabakh is a defeat for Yerevan. They are injecting ideas about the need for a ‘war to the victorious end.’ On the other hand, Azerbaijanis are told that the Kremlin ‘stole their victory’ when the Azerbaijani army was a step away from capturing [Karabakh capital] Stepanakert,” reads his statement released on Nov. 18, reported TASS.

Naryshkin further said that “leading NATO countries are trying to hide their irritation at the agreement on the Nagorno-Karabakh ceasefire between Azerbaijan and Armenia reached with Russia’s active participation. ... The United States and its allies are vexed that the war was stopped through Moscow’s mediation. The thing is that it essentially reduced their longstanding work to push Russia out of Transcaucasia to zero.”

He continued: “Neither Washington nor the ‘United Europe’ want to come to terms with the existing balance of power in the region. They couldn’t come up with anything better than trying to rekindle animosity between the nations of Azerbaijan and Armenia to dismantle it,” he warned. “These actions serve as yet more proof that the U.S. and its European friends again pursue their goals at the expense of the interests of ordinary people, in this case, Azerbaijanis and Armenians. Americans and Europeans are not worried that their provocations can lead to new bloodshed and plunge the region into a severe military conflict.”

Confirming the fact that Russia was able to seize the initiative and stop the conflict and put it on the path to resolution, the Azerbaijani Foreign Ministry issued a statement praising the role of Russian President Vladimir Putin who had brought the two countries heads to Moscow on Nov. 9 to sign a ceasefire agreement. “The personal role of the Russian President and his signature to the trilateral statement are an exceptionally important contribution to the peace process and a guarantee this process will not be reversed,” the statement said. “Russia is a permanent member of the UN Security Council, a country that borders on our region and has old-time historical bonds with it. This explains Russia’s direct interest in strengthening security, stability and peace in the South Caucasus,” the Azerbaijani Foreign Ministry said. “From the very beginning of the war the Azerbaijani side has always and entirely supported the international community’s calls for ceasefire.”

Meanwhile a poll conducted for Radio Sputnik revealed that 83.8% of Armenians have a positive attitude toward Russia and see the country as an ally, while 9.4% expressed their negative attitude. The poll was conducted by MPG, the exclusive representative of the Gallup International Association in Armenia. In addition 62.3% said Russia was a country they could count on for support followed by France (39.9%), neighboring Iran (6.4%), the United States (5.8%), Germany (1.2%) and Georgia (0.6%). When asked whether Russia is Armenia’s ally, 84.6% replied in the affirmative, while 11.8% replied in the negative.

COLLAPSING WESTERN FINANCIAL SYSTEM

The Fed Would Rather Reign in Hell, Than Serve the President

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—The Federal Reserve has effectively announced that it is going to help pull the United States into the twin economic disasters called the Paris Climate Accord and the “Green New Deal,” after four years when fear of the chastisements of President Donald Trump have held the Fed in neutral on this life-or-death matter.

The President pulled the United States out of that fatal Paris Accord, which was an agreement to sacrifice economies and human lives to “save the planet.” The Fed Board of Governors held back from considering “climate change” as a policy objective, while the British, European and Japanese central banks combined to force “green investment only” on their companies and governments. The Fed avoided this because Trump consistently and forcefully put its actions before Congress and the American people, to whom the Federal Reserve should answer.

Now, rather than continue to respect the President—from whom a second term is being stolen by a “diseased” election—the Fed has decided it wants to join the other central banks in their global coup as it enters the “central bank digital currencies” phase. The Fed wants to reign in the Hell of a green financial dictatorship and a ruined economy, rather than serve the American republic.

This game was given away in a Nov. 11 webinar sponsored by the European Central Bank (ECB), in which Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell spoke along with ECB President Christine Lagarde and Deputy Governor Sir Jon Cunliffe of the Bank of England. Powell said, “Incorporating climate change into our thinking about financial regulation is relatively new. And we are very actively in the early stages of this, getting up to speed, working with our central bank colleagues.” On cue, two other Fed governors and a New York Fed official announced the same thing. And Powell announced the Fed was joining the Network for Greening the Financial System, the global central banks’ cabal aimed at suppressing all “carbon-based” industry investment. It was inspired by British royal fanatic Prince Charles, and formed in 2015 for big-bank enforcement of the Paris Climate Accord, by then Bank of England Governor Mark Carney and Wall Street-London billionaire Mike Bloomberg.

Donald Trump’s constant healthy pressure has kept the Fed out of this green finance cabal until now. But note: This “Network” requires that its central bank members’ countries be in the Paris Climate Accord—so the Fed is signing up with Biden's Wall Street backers who want to reverse President Trump's industry-saving decision to get the United States out of it.

The Federal Reserve has printed $3.5 trillion in the past year exclusively to supply the speculations of the biggest Wall Street and City of London banks, helping balloon their already huge deposits and assets by another 15%, and at the same time watching happily as they withdraw credit from the economy. These monsters aren't lending more than half their total deposits, let alone their capital and the reserves the Fed is pouring into them. They stiffed the Payroll Protection Program, leaving those loans to the 5,000 smaller regional and community banks which have only a third of the banking system's assets.

This is criminal activity, and the Federal Reserve governors now want to cap it off by directing what investment there is, away from coal, oil, natural gas, petrochemicals, the power industry, livestock ranchers, etc. and force it into stocks and bonds of "green" companies instead. This is what the European and British banks are already doing—dictating investments in a "green financial bubble," putting "carbon penalties" on everything else.

And how much money do they want to print for this bubble? Prince Charles and British central banker Mark Carney say $100 trillion! ECB chief Lagarde is much more modest: She says $5 trillion over a decade will do it for Europe. Remember, Bernie Sanders said $16-25 trillion for his green new deal, and the Fed would print it.

They should be stopped: First, by mobilizing for President Trump to overturn the fraud against him; and, by demanding nationalization of the Federal Reserve, so it can be made to function as a "Hamiltonian" national bank and provide plentiful credit for new infrastructure and productive employment.

THE NEW GLOBAL ECONOMIC ORDER

Nov. 19 (EIRNS)—Russian and Chinese Foreign Ministers Sergey Lavrov and Wang Yi discussed, in a phone call yesterday, upcoming contacts on cooperation between the Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) and the Belt and Road Initiative, as well as other issues. “Special attention was placed on the schedule of upcoming contacts on the highest and high level, as well as specific issues of practical cooperation in the bilateral format and in the framework of implementing agreements of the leaders to integrate development plans of the Eurasian Economic Union and China’s Belt and Road Initiative,” the Russian Foreign Ministry reported.

For his part the Chinese Foreign Minister said China hopes to join forces with Russia to fight global hegemony and the growing protectionism. China also will continue to work with Russia to promote the Sino-Russian comprehensive partnership and strengthen political dialogue with Russia to combat the pandemic and restore the global economy.
