The LaRouche Organization Mass Pamphlet: ‘Stop Global Britain’s Green War Drive’

March 3 (EIRNS)—The LaRouche Organization today released a 64-page pamphlet under the title: “Stop Global Britain’s Green War Drive.” There is an irony in the title which is essential for all citizens, of all nations, to grasp, so as to become what Friedrich Schiller called a “patriot of one’s nation and a citizen of the world.”

That irony is that the hysteria being riled up against Russia over the military operation in Ukraine is intended to blind the world to the actual war being fought on a global scale, against the entire world’s population. The evidence is not hidden—it is literally being shoved in your face every day, every hour, in the form of economic decay and hyperinflation, driven by the demand that the human race commit genocide against itself by shutting down fossil fuels, shutting down nuclear power plants, denying modern technology to the already impoverished and starving former colonial nations—all to “save the planet” from carbon.

Regardless of the easily demonstrated scientific fact that carbon has essentially nothing to do with the climate, the Green New Deal is the new religion of the royals and the billionaire bankers and speculators who gather every year at the Davos World Economic Forum to celebrate their demonic power to impose Malthusian genocide on the world’s population through their control of credit. Mark Carney, the former head of both the Bank of Canada and the Bank of England, and a hitman for Prince Charles and the royals, proudly described their plan for genocide in a Nov. 13, 2021, Guardian op-ed: “In April [2021], we launched the Glasgow Financial Alliance for Net Zero (GFANZ), which now covers the entire waterfront of finance: banks, insurers, pension funds, export credit agencies and asset managers. It comprises more than 450 leading financial institutions from 45 countries. Its members have committed to managing their assets, which total more than $130 trillion, in line with achieving 1.5° C.... New loans and investments from GFANZ members will not only fund green projects such as renewable power, but will also go where the emissions are—in sectors such as autos, steel, cement—and back those companies with plans to decarbonize, while withdrawing capital from those companies that aren't moving fast enough.”

The plan to destroy development internationally was rejected by Russia, China, and India, among others, knowing that their economic progress, as well as that of all developing nations, depends on fossil fuels (and more advanced forms of energy, such as nuclear fission and eventually fusion). This was the last straw for Charles and the Lords of the City of London—“Off with their heads!”

This is, of course, what Lyndon H. LaRouche has warned against over the past 50 years. The financial oligarchy runs the world economy and the governments of the Western world. The decisions of war and peace are made by the banking elite, while the military-industrial complex is but a subset of that imperial structure.

That is why the British and the United States were so ruthlessly driving NATO's military forces up to Russia's border, while a similar process is taking place in the Pacific against China. They would prefer there be no world war, for which there would be no winner, and very possibly human annihilation (but better war than bankruptcy!). The economic warfare is nonetheless war, what they so quaintly describe as the “financial nuclear option,” or the “mother of all sanctions.” Quite openly, the White House and other European leaders have declared their intent to destroy the Russian economy, while planning the same for China.

Isn't it interesting that Russia's military operation is described as a war crime, justifying the total destruction of the Russian economy—did we ever hear this about the “shock and awe” against Iraq, Libya, or Syria, none of which had any legal or moral justification? With all the screaming about civilian deaths in Ukraine, are there any cries of pain for the 24 million Afghan citizens now being intentionally starved to death as Joe Biden steals their money?

Mankind is at a precipice. It is heading rapidly into a new Dark Age. This can be reversed, but only by a total transformation, a new strategic architecture for all nations, which also assures the right to development for all. This is the intention of the Schiller Institute petition, “Convoke an International Conference To Establish a New Security and Development Architecture for All Nations,” which you should sign and circulate. This is also the intention of The LaRouche Organization pamphlet referenced above: “Stop Global Britain’s Green War Drive.” Contact us to get multiple copies of this pamphlet, to distribute and to organize your fellow men and women. Your life depends on it.

STRATEGIC WAR DANGER

Lavrov Tells Interview ‘It Is Clear, World War III Can Only Be Nuclear’

March 3 (EIRNS)—“It is clear that World War III can only be nuclear.... I would like to point out that it’s in the heads of Western politicians that the idea of a nuclear war is spinning constantly, and not in the heads of Russians. Therefore I assure you that we will not allow any provocations to throw us off balance,” remarked Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov in an interview today with Russian and other news media.

Russia and Ukraine Talks Agree To Set Up Humanitarian Corridors

March 3 (EIRNS)—While more was discussed today at the second meeting in Belarus of the Russian and Ukrainian delegations, the first fruit of the meetings was an agreement to have humanitarian corridors established. Supplies, food, medical help and such could be brought into conflicted zones, and those who wish to leave would be secured an exit.

An aide to Ukraine’s President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, Mykhailo Podolyak, reported after the conference, that they had not achieved all they had hoped, but the statement he read described the corridors, and included the possibility of ceasefires during the time the corridors were being employed. He indicated that the next round would be very soon, and that ceasefires would be further dealt with then.

Aide to Russian President Vladimir Putin who heads the Russian delegation, Vladimir Medinsky, reported that, beyond the corridors, military and future political situations were discussed, and that both sides had made their positions clear. He characterized the willingness of both the Russian and Ukrainian Ministries of Defense to collaborate on the corridors as “substantial progress.”

Another delegation member, Chairman of the Duma Foreign Affairs Committee Deputy Leonid Slutsky also remarked that there would be further developments, as important matters that would involve both countries’ legislatures are now on the agenda. He did not describe those matters, except to say that they would require confirmation at the highest level, and they would be the subject on that level over the immediate days ahead.

RT Documentary Channel Releases Documentation of the Nazi Atrocities in Donbas

March 3 (EIRNS)—Just days after RT was shut down in Britain and across Europe, and perhaps just days before the U.S. government follows their masters in London, RTD, the documentary channel, released on March 1 a devastating documentary, “Donbass. Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow,” showing live footage from the violence on the Maidan, the peaceful demonstrations in the Donbas protesting the attacks on the Russian cultural heritage, attacks by the fascists on those demonstrations, the May 2, 2014 burning alive at least 40 anti-Kiev coup demonstrators in Odessa’s Trade Union Building, and the full-scale war on the Donbas following the referenda for independence in Donetsk and Luhansk, showing and interviewing the people who have lived through eight years of bombing and shelling, with 13-14,000 dead and vast destruction.

The documentary intersperses scenes from today, before the Russian military operation. It is worth circulating before it is banned by the new fascist censorship here at home.

Lavrov Demands To Know, Is Germany Sympathizing with Ukrainian Neo-Nazis?

March 3 (EIRNS)—The Russian foreign minister had unprecedentedly harsh words for Germany, in an interview with Al Jazeera TV yesterday: “Shocked, I listen to comments by European politicians, especially German ones. My colleague [German Foreign Minister] Annalena Baerbock says that in view of its historical responsibility, Germany feels obliged to supply Ukraine with weapons. How is this to be understood? That historical guilt and its recognition require Germany to support neo-Nazis? That evokes somewhat strange thoughts. EU Commission chief Ursula von der Leyen claims that the EU and Ukraine are now much closer than ever before. What is she alluding to? Isn’t it a signal that as long as you are a Russophobe, as long as you are a fascist, as long as you are a neo-Nazi, you are allowed to do anything?”

Looking at the sanctions case against the Nord Stream 2 gas pipeline, Lavrov said that it came as no surprise that the EU and “of course NATO” would obediently follow the United States—especially when the fate of Nord Stream 2 became clear. “Even if it were to be restarted (the decision is probably not ours), come what may, it is already clear that Nord Stream 2 has played its part in history, because it has clearly shown what place Europe, including Germany, actually occupies on the world stage—an absolutely subordinate and dependent place,” Lavrov made clear.

U.S. Cancels ICBM Test Flight

March 3 (EIRNS)—Pentagon Press Secretary John Kirby announced yesterday that a flight test of a Minuteman III ICBM scheduled for the March 5-6 weekend had been canceled. Austin made the decision “in an effort to demonstrate that we have no intention in engaging in any actions that can be misunderstood or misconstrued. We did not take this decision lightly, but instead to demonstrate that we are a responsible nuclear power.

It is not a step backwards in our readiness, nor does it imply that we will necessarily cancel other routine activities to ensure credible nuclear capability,” said Kirby

However, senior defense officials this week have said they have not observed any evidence of Russia upping its nuclear posture, Stars & Stripes reports, referring to Russian President Vladimir Putin’s Feb. 27 decree putting Russia’s deterrence forces on high alert. “In this time of heightened tensions, the United States and other members of the international community rightly saw this as a dangerous and irresponsible and, as I’ve said before, an unnecessary step,” Kirby went on, assuming an air of moral superiority. “Such provocative rhetoric and possible changes to nuclear posture involving the most consequential weapons and our respective arsenals is unacceptable.”

In addition to Kirby, a senior defense official, also briefing reporters at the Pentagon, was asked yesterday if the U.S. had seen any movement of Russian tactical nuclear weapons. All he would say is that “we’ve seen nothing that would cause us to have less comfort in the strategic deterrent posture that we have in place.”

Russian Intelligence Warns That Ukraine Is Working on a Nuclear Bomb

March 3 (EIRNS)—Sergei Naryshkin, the head of the Russian Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) told the press today that SVR had obtained intelligence showing that Ukraine was working on building its own nuclear weapons. Naryshkin stressed that President Volodymyr Zelenskyy’s threats to abandon the Budapest Agreement, which gave up the nuclear weapons on its territory when the Soviet Union disintegrated, were “not an empty promise.” Zelenskyy told the Munich Security Conference that he was considering obtaining nuclear weapons for Ukraine.

Naryshkin reported that Ukraine has preserved technical potential to create nuclear armaments and that it is higher than either Iran or North Korea’s, according to Sputnik.

The Russian intelligence chief further slammed the inaction of European countries that failed to take any action following Zelenskyy's nuclear weapons threats at Munich.

Senate Armed Services Committee Ranking Republican to Be Replaced by Nuclear Bomber Wicker

March 3 (EIRNS)—Sen. James Inhofe (R-OK), the ranking member on the Senate Armed Services Committee denounced the Pentagon's decision to cancel a planned flight test this week of a Minuteman III ICBM. Inhofe wrote on his Twitter account yesterday: “Disappointing @SecDef decision to cancel routine unarmed reliability test of Minuteman III in the face of Russian bluster. Test is critical to ensure our nuke deterrent stays effective. Deterrence means projecting strength and resolve—not sacrificing readiness for hollow gestures.”

The 87-year-old Inhofe announced on Feb. 25 that he would be resigning from the U.S. Senate effective on Jan. 3, 2023. Assuming the Democrats retain majority in the Senate after the midterms, slated to replace Inhofe as the ranking member on the committee is Sen. Roger Wicker of Mississippi. Wicker made himself infamous on the equally infamous Dec. 7, when he told Fox News' Neil Cavuto that even nuclear strikes should not be taken off the table were Russian President Vladimir Putin to decide to invade Ukraine. “Military action could mean that we stand off with our ships in the Black Sea, and we rain destruction on Russian military capability,” he said. Should Republicans take back control of the Senate in the November 2022 elections, Wicker would then be the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

COLLAPSING WESTERN FINANCIAL SYSTEM

Irreversible Damage to German-Russian Relations

March 3 (EIRNS)—Russian Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova made a statement on Germany's Feb. 22 decision to suspend certification of the Nord Stream 2 gas pipeline, yesterday: “We would like to declare that Berlin's decision to stop the project will result in irreversible damage to Russian-German relations, which have been far from cloudless in recent years through no fault of ours. Responsibility for the consequences of these illegitimate actions, which call into question the reputation of Germany as a reliable foreign economic partner, rests entirely on the German side.

“We believe this is a classic precedent of using the commercial project as the political weapon against us, which the collective West at large and official Berlin, in particular, are so fond of blaming Moscow for.

“Now it is obvious that the German authorities were inconsistent and “succumbed to the temptation to use the project as a leverage of pressure on Russia, thereby showing their inability to separate politics and economics....

“The timely commissioning of this gas pipeline would be in the interests of both Russia and Europe. In addition to mutual benefit, the new route is designed to contribute to the diversification of gas supply and become a stabilizing component for the gas market in Europe. Apparently, this will not happen in the near future, since the project has become a hostage of artificial linkage with other political plots. As we already see, the inevitable consequence of the abandonment of Nord Stream 2 will be a rapid increase in gas prices in the European market.”

EU Takes ‘Russia Today’ and ‘Sputnik’ Off the Air, To Protect Europe from Eurocratic Lies

March 3 (EIRNS)—The EU has given the go ahead to take Russia Today and Sputnik off the air. “We will ban the Kremlin’s media machine in the EU. The state-owned Russia Today and Sputnik, and their subsidiaries, will no longer be able to spread their lies to justify Putin’s war,” said Ursula von der Leyen, president of the European Commission. “We are developing tools to ban their toxic and harmful disinformation in Europe.”

The European Federation of Journalists said it fears the effects of this spiral of censorship on freedom of expression in Europe. “This act of censorship can have a totally counterproductive effect on the citizens who follow the banned media,” said Journalists’ General Secretary Ricardo Gutiérrez said in a statement.

Brits Ban RT and Sputnik, Open Investigation for Bias

March 3 (EIRNS)—On the basis of the well-established “fact” that all British journalism is fair and unbiased, the British media regulator Ofcom, following the banning of RT and Sputnik altogether, has opened investigations into RT. “When dealing with major matters such as the crisis in Ukraine, all Ofcom licensees must comply with the special impartiality requirements in our Code. These rules require broadcasters to take additional steps to preserve due impartiality—namely by including and giving due weight to a wide range of significant views.”

So, to maintain this pure and unbiased British press, Ofcom has opened 15 new investigations into the due impartiality of news programs on the RT news channel. “These investigations—which relate to 15 editions of the hourly News program broadcast on RT on 27 February 2022 between 05:00 and 19:00 inclusive—will be expedited, given the severity and urgency of the current crisis. We expect full cooperation from RT.” Ofcom’s Chief Executive Dame Melanie Dawes remarked, with a stiff upper lip: “Given the scale and gravity of the crisis in Ukraine, audiences expect to be able to trust and rely on duly impartial broadcast news.... We take this responsibility—and our duty to protect audiences and uphold trust in news—extremely seriously. Freedom of expression is a cornerstone of our approach and fundamental to our democracy.”

Freedom of expression requires censorship. War is peace. Snow is black. Hail Britannia.

U.S. POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC

‘Color Revolutions’ All Violate International Law, Says UN Expert in China TV Interview

March 3 (EIRNS)—In an interview yesterday with China’s CGTN television network, Alfred de Zayas, the UN’s first Independent Expert on the Promotion of a Democratic and Equitable International Order, said that “color revolutions” violate the UN Charter. “They are all illegal,” De Zayas told host Wang Guan in an exclusive interview. “They all violate the United Nations Charter, and they violate customary international law. There is a very old and solid principle of international law that prohibits interference in the internal affairs of states. And this is something that has happened again and again. My country [United States], through its National Endowment for Democracy, finances any number of non-governmental organizations that essentially are there to destabilize countries. They played an important role, if not a crucial role, in the destabilization of Ukraine back in 2014. I mean, if you want to have regime change, have an election. Have a democratic election. And that is what my people violated on the Feb. 22, 2014,” by violently overthrowing the elected government of Ukraine. “And the poor Ukrainian people are now paying for this unconstitutional toppling of a democratically elected government.

“But as an American, I must say, I feel vicariously responsible for what my government is doing. And I have enormous sympathy, enormous compassion for the people of Ukraine who have been used in this geopolitical game. And the imperial arrogance shown by NATO, in particular by [NATO Secretary General] Jens Stoltenberg. It’s actually a violation of human rights. There is an imperial narcissism. And apparently all European countries which are ostensibly committed to human rights are complicit in it.”

NEW ECONOMIC ORDER

China, Russia, India Would Be a ‘Successful Alternative to the Atlantic Bloc, as LaRouche Would Say’

March 3 (EIRNS)—In a half-hour interview on Feb. 28 with cable and web TV network ByoBlu, Italian economist Nino Galloni pointed out that as consequence of the West antagonizing Russia, “we are going toward a strengthening of relations among China, Russia, and India, which alone, with their natural allies on respective territories, can represent a major and ‘successful’ alternative—as Lyndon LaRouche would say, if he were still among us—to the Atlantic-Western bloc.”

Referring to the war hysteria and “war emergency” which has replaced the COVID emergency in Western media and politics, Galloni joked that “we should give Putin the Nobel Prize in Medicine, since he freed us from COVID.”

ByoBlu is the reference media for many anti-establishment, anti-euro, but also anti-vaccination networks in Italy and the mainstream considers it a major “conspiracy theory” media outlet.

On his Twitter account, Galloni cracked another joke, proposing to send 10,000 of the most prominent Italian politicians to Ukraine, instead of sending weapons. “If the Russians military are touched and stop, we have saved the peace. On the contrary, if they continue to advance, we have saved Italy.”

Russia Stops Delivery of Rocket Engines to U.S., Rogozin Recommends They ‘Fly Brooms’

March 3 (EIRNS)—Russia will stop deliveries of rocket engines to the United States, Roscosmos director Dmitry Rogozin announced today. “In this situation, we can no longer provide the U.S. with the best rocket engines in the world,” Rogozin said. “Let them fly on something else—their brooms.” Roscosmos will halt shipping RD-181 rocket engines to the U.S. and will no longer maintain the 24 engines that the U.S. currently owns. Sputnik reports that since the mid-1990s, 122 RD-180 engines for Atlas missiles have been delivered, and the U.S. has used 98 of them.

Rogozin also stated that he had written to Anke Kaysser-Pyzalla, the head of the German Aerospace Center, announcing that Russia would cease conducting joint scientific experiments on the International Space Station, according to Sputnik. He said Germany had curtailed crucial joint space projects in a “hostile and destructive” action, including the shutdown of the German eROSITA wide-field telescope aboard the Russian observatory, which had led to the collapse of a unique scientific project to create a map of the sky in the Röntgen (X-ray) spectrum. “German colleagues who took such steps to politicize our relations will end up with nothing,” he said.

“Taking into account the completely unacceptable actions of our German colleagues, primarily the German Center for Aviation and Cosmonautics, I turned off one of the telescopes of our space observatory ‘Spektr-RG’, which is located at a distance of 1.5 million km from Earth at the Lagrange point L2. This is a completely civilian international mission to explore the starry sky,” Rogozin elaborated, saying that Russia has all the essential resources to conduct the experiments by itself.

Rogozin said Roscosmos will create satellites in line with the interests of both Roscosmos and the Russian Defense Ministry, giving its satellites a “dual purpose,” given the “conditions that our country is in now.”

Russian Diplomat Comments on Sole Super Power Ideology

March 3 (EIRNS)—Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Alexander Grushko charged, during a March 2 television interview with Rossiya-24, that the West forgot about its own security interests in pursuit of geopolitical expansion into new areas. “The West imagined itself the winner in the Cold War and decided that it alone could establish its own rules,” the deputy foreign minister said. “A rules-based order is not really international law, of course. This is the order that is conceived in Brussels, Washington and other capitals.”

Grushko further insisted: “If you put the interests of security above else, then, a realization must happen in Europe sooner or later that the establishment of this NATO-centric architecture is a road to nowhere, it is simply turning oneself into an object of military planning,” he said. “Europe, essentially, must first and foremost curb, neutralize and protect itself from the consequences of NATO interventions.”

He also warned that “Risks do emerge. Of course, we are worried by weapons supplies. All this is very dangerous,” he said. “There are no guarantees some incidents will not occur.”
